Part 3: Tips for Success in This Major

- Take advantage of media tools. Learn to use platforms and tools like Adobe Creative Suite, Canva, podcasting software, or social media analytics. These are often important in media-related communication careers.
- Engage in class and apply critical thinking. Don't just memorize—question, analyze, and contribute to discussions. Engaged learners understand and retain more.
- Polish your writing and speaking skills. Strong, clear communication is your currency. Regularly practice and refine both academic writing and public speaking.
- Gain real-world experience. Internships, student media, or event planning roles help you apply classroom concepts and build a resume.
- Stay informed and media-literate. The field evolves fast. Follow news, social trends, and emerging platforms to stay ahead.
- Build relationships and network early. Professors, alumni, and peers can open doors to jobs, mentorship, and collaboration. Communication is about connection—start building yours now.

Part 4: Academic Support Resources

Tutoring Services

The Tutoring and Learning Center on main campus offers free, virtual tutoring services. They do not offer any course-specific tutoring for communication studies courses; however, your professors should be able to direct you to extra support for any courses you are struggling with. Forming study groups with peers is highly recommended.

Workshops & Academic Coaching

Academic coaching is a one-on-one student interaction with a Tutoring & Learning Center coach. These sessions can be done virtually and address a variety of topics including study tips & skills, organization, time management, and transfer student needs.

Prefer support in a group setting? Academic success workshops are offered throughout the academic year with the Tutoring & Learning Center. The schedule for workshops can be found on the TLC website as well as on their social media page.

Writing & Communication Support

The TUNE Peer Writing Tutor, Brinn Piccicuto, has weekly office hours for the fall semester on Mondays & Wednesdays from 10am-1pm in Room 212. Brinn can assist students at any stage of the writing process (brainstorming, writing introductions, grammar, APA format, organization, sentence structure, etc.). If you are unavailable to meet during her office hours, contact Brinn at bpiccic2@students.towson.edu to schedule a meeting at another time or to get support asynchronously via email.

The Writing Center on main campus is also an optional resource and they offer virtual meeting times.

The Public Communication Center (PCC) provides speech advice to improve public speaking skills to prepare for in-class presentations. Brinn is also available to provide this service for TUNE students.

Tech & Tools

The Client Services Computer Lab at TUNE is available to students for walk-in computer access and on-site support to answer general technology questions and access to digital media software. TechHelp is a great resource for any tech-related questions, Blackboard concerns, etc.

Taking online classes? Check out these student resources for remote learning.

Course Registration

Registering for TUNE courses is a unique process compared to registering for classes offered on the main campus. TUNE courses are added to a student's cart using a four-digit class code, rather than utilizing the class search function. The course schedules for each semester can be found on our website.

Students can also utilize our step-by-step guide on how to register for classes located on the same webpage as above. This guide includes a video that shows the process visually.

Part 5: TU Department Resources & Information

Library & Research

Cook Library offers research & resource guides for each major. The communication studies guide offers access to research articles, DEI resources, books, websites, and more. This guide has information on properly citing sources for an academic paper and specific industry websites to pay attention to.

Contact Information for Cook Library's Assessment and Analytics Librarian:

Soo-yeon Hwang

shwang@towson.edu

410-704-2395

Students can also check out books at Cook Library and have them sent to TUNE for pickup. Simply change the pickup location to TU Northeastern during the checkout process. You will receive an email from Lauren Zelina, TUNE's Administrative Assistant, to pick up your book from the front desk when it arrives. Questions about checking out books? Contact Kevin Fry at kfry@towson.edu.

Career Center

TU's Career Center offers a variety of information to support students preparing for a career in the communications field. The website has specific information about finding an internship, job, and/or preparing for interviews.

Contact information:

Sidney Pink, Assistant Director External Relations, Media, Arts & Communication & Liberal Arts

spink@towson.edu

410-704-6093

Rosemary Riel, Associate Director of the Career Center, will be at TUNE monthly this fall to offer in-person support and a Lunch & Learn session. Students can meet with Rosemary for assistance finding an internship, resume or cover letter support, applying for jobs or graduate school, or general career guidance. When here, Rosemary will have a table in the Learning Commons for drop-in support. You can also email her to set up an appointment in advance at rriel@towson.edu.

Career Center visits will be from 10:30am-2:30pm on the following Thursdays:

September 18th, October 16th, November 20th

- On each of these dates, we are offering a FREE Lunch & Learn session in Room 112 from 12:30pm-1:30pm
- Each Lunch & Learn will focus on a different topic:
 - September-Resume writing
 - October-Applying to graduate school
 - November-Job search strategies

Harford County Public Library offers many free career resources on their website including job search tools, local job openings and more. They also have a school support resource hub that offers access to resources on building new skills, learning a language, test prep resources, and more.

Mental Health Support

All TU students have access to free, virtual counseling services through the Counseling Center. Appointments can be made online or over the phone and are made for the same day that the student is seeking support.

Togetherall is a free, 24/7 communication platform for students to have conversations with their peers anonymously about topics related to mental health. Togetherall offers tools and courses to help students find creative strategies for taking care of themselves.

Welltrack Boost is a mental health self-help app that helps students take inventory of their own wellbeing. The app is free and offers courses, trackers, schedulers, quizzes, and more.

Academic & Disability Support Services

Accessibility and Disability Support Services collaborates with students, faculty, and staff to ensure equal opportunities and accessibility for students in the classroom. For students interested in getting set up with accommodations, please review the Getting Started guide. For assistance with this process, contact Allison Frey, the Director of Student Services at TUNE, at afrey@towson.edu.

Emergency Resources

For students who need support navigating a significant life challenge, reach out to Student Outreach and Support \(SOS\). SOS helps with academic issues, financial concerns, emergency health issues, mental health crises, and more. You can submit a form to SOS for yourself or for a friend.
